Flora–Essentials

Full-spectrum, high potency blend of digestive enzymes with prebiotics for improved digestion and relief from post-meal digestive problems

Flora-Essentials contains a full-spectrum blend of plant-based digestive enzymes, in combination with two prebiotic nutrients - fructo-oligosaccharide (FOS) and inulin. The full-spectrum blend of digestive enzymes helps your body digest and absorb all key food elements, reducing the amount of food residue left behind in the intestinal tract, and its fermentation products. In many cases this helps solve post-meal bloating issues that are due to digestive enzyme insufficiency - common in women and in aging. It is well established that secretion of digestive enzymes decline as we age, which accounts for the increased incidence of digestive problems seen in people beginning at middle age. As such, supplementation with full-spectrum digestive enzymes provides solution to improve the quality of life for these individuals, allowing them to eat a wider variety of food, without fear of bloating, pain and intestinal upset.

The prebiotics FOS and inulin foster the growth of the friendly gut bacteria, which in turn, improves digestion, elimination, detoxification, and immune function. A higher concentration of friendly gut bacteria has been shown to aid in the management of autoimmune conditions, skin disorders, and tone down food intolerances and hypersensitivity reactions.

Who Should Consider Taking Flora–Essentials

Flora-Essentials is often an ideal supplement for patients with post-meal bloating, irritable bowel syndrome, hyper-sensitivity reactions to food and food intolerances, and patients with allergic conditions, autoimmune conditions, skin conditions and yeast infections. (e.g. Candida). It may also be helpful during the remission stages of inflammatory bowel disease, and as part of the day-to-day digestive tract support in celiac disease.

If you have digestive complaints, eczema, an autoimmune or inflammatory bowel condition, ask your health practitioner if Adëeva Flora-Essentials may be helpful in your case.
